Election . . .

(Continued from Page C-4) you look it up in the dictionary you will find that alopecia simply means baldness. I doubt that being bald is a disqualification for public office.

I have another problem. I am slightly lame in the right leg as the result of a gunshot wound I received in China while commanding an anti-pirate guard aboard a ship on the Yangtze River. This is the basis for the story circulated to the effect that I am dying of cancer of the leg.

THIS IS MY sixteenth year as Member of the Assembly from the 46th District. It is impossible for any person to remain in public office for sixteen years without incurring the wrath of several people. I have infuriated a few lawyer-lobbyists because I refused to vote, either in committees or on the floor of the assembly, the way they wanted me to vote. It just happens that most of those lawyer-lobbyists who hate me are Republican lawyer-lobbyists.

A few of the lobbyists who wanted me to vote against my conscience and the best interests of my constituents are Democratic lobbyists who have joined forces with the Republican lawyer-lobbyists. This is one of the joys of holding public office. This makes life interesting.

God and the voters willing, I shall and will remain in office a few more years—to infuriate the enemies of the people, I am glad to report.

Dills Backers Say He Leads the Field

Judge Ralph C. Dills candidate for state senate from the 32nd District, is the only candidate with legislative experience, and his election to the state senate would actually insure "instant legislation" for the district as he has already served six terms in Sacramento as a member of the state legislature, his backers claim.

Many political observers this week are predicting the nomination of Judge Dills on the Democratic ticket in the 32nd Senatorial District Tuesday. Four independent polls in the last six weeks have been taken and Judge Dills has continued to place first in each. The Dills' lead and popularity is attributed to his outstanding qualifications, legislative, and judicial record.

THE JURIST is widely known in Southern California as a vigorous Democratic party campaigner, college teacher, judge, state assemblyman and youth leader with the Boy Scouts and the Southern Area Boys Club. Judge Dills is a graduate of Gardena high school, Compton College, UCLA, USC, and Loyola University School of Law. He has been admitted to practice law before the United States Supreme Court and all federal and state courts.

The popular senate candidate was chairman of the Municipal Judges Association of Los Angeles County and was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws by McGeorge College of Law at Sacramento.

While a member of the state legislature, Judge Dills authored one of the most important health laws ever passed. This is the law which provides that garbage must be cooked if fed to hogs.
